A Richmond Man in the Black Hills. Poor Man's Gulce, May 29, 1877.

Editors of Richmond Dispatch: I believe that my last letter was written from one of the peaks of the Bald moun-I reached the Big Horn. Well, I am back again, and located in a log-cabin on this gulch. I found that my trip would cost too much, and the snow bothered me considerably; and, to tell the truth, I foundthat my hair was too long, as the Sioux, being out on a hunting excursion, I had a very faint idea that they might take a fancy to it. To use a miner's phrase, I called by Jo." In fact, I am a cripple, and it will take some time to get fixed all right. In trying to come down the "summit" astonished me. I caught at several cottonwood trees, but they snapped like pipestems, and although they stopped my rapid descent I had to go to the bottom of the mountain and lay there for some time. Hundreds are on their way to the Big Horn mountains, and I am afraid that they will find gold-in a horn. While I am writing hundreds of miners are packing up and stampeding for the Yellowstone. Ponies are in great demand, and every pilgrim that arrives here with one (pony) soon finds a ready purchaser. I am inclined to think that these stampedes are manufactured to order by cated bankrupts by Register Atkins. the merchants in town. When the city becomes crowded with a great many "tender Walker, of Norfolk, inspector of flour for feet" and "pilgrims" (which happens very that city.

often) some one seems to have heard that big placer diggings have been found about fifty miles from here, and just as soon as this is given out the stampede commences, Extra fine VICTORIA LAWNS at 163c. These are sold everywhere else at 25c.

or "Ma" sends the greenbacks. This is the first place that I have been to where greenbacks bring a large premium. A per dollar is worth one dollar and twelve cents in gold dust. Of course gold is our money for paying debts, but the merchants prefer national currency and pay the above high rate for the difference. I have heard wonderful stories in the "States," but I have been introduced to the greatest men of the age (in their own estimation), and they are the heroes of stories that would turn over the dummic on your railroad and would not stop short of a bar-keeper's punch. One of these asked me bow many Indians I had killed, and when I told bim that I had never shot one he laughed for at least five minutes, and then said, "Go west on your ear, young man; take a tumble to yourself. I killed fourteen, shot through the heart, and then walked off with fifteen scalps." How he managed to get so many scalps I cannot say, I spoke to a man who I thought looked tired and sleapy and asked him bow he get tired and sleepy, and asked him how he got along without rest and sleep, and he replied that he had not slept for four months.

I gave him up as a tough nut, too hard for me to crack. A friend of mine was dining in a saloon not far from here, and among many things in his food he found a string and some buttons. He looked at his hash for a moment, when a miner, sitting opposite to him, said: Young man, what do you expect: a silk umbrella? Have to get you a Pullman palace dining-car." All the old miners look down on new arrivals, and hence the name Pilgrim and Tender Feet. To be wise you must keep a close mouth, or else speak of the mines in California, Montana, and Colorado. The mine-owners prefer "old miners" at five dollars a day in preference to greenborns at fifty cents. Thousands of young men are chopping wood at $1.50 per cord that never handled an axe till they arrived here in the Hills; and they, with tender feet and sore hands, have a hard time of it. I wrote to the papers in the East telling them to warn their readers to stay at home; but it did no good, and the cry is still they come, and here they are without a cent in a strange land, among

Money is wanted out here, and when the mines are developed I have no doubt thou-sands of men will be employed; but until that time comes they must stay at home. I do not know whether my letters are published or not, but would like to have all papers that have them (if published) sent to me. I shall remain here for some time, and am putting up a stamp-mill for crushing gold-quartz, and have made a contract for crushing a large amount, which will keep me employed day and night for six months (except Sundays). I shall visit the great silver country, would like to know anything about it you duplicate of one sent to St. Petersburg must let me know either by writing or by sending me your paper.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT .- Yesterday evening as William C. Moncure and lady were returning to their home near the new reservoir a screw of the shafts gave way, causing the horse to run up on an embankment and overturn the buggy, breaking it to pieces. The house on the premises not being sufficiently large, they are building an addition which will cost them $10,600. The corner-stone of this will be laid by Right Rev. J. THE MOZART .- To the very warm and hreatening weather no doubt is to be attributed the meagre attendance at the Mozart last evening. The entertainment was very enjoyable, although the storm detracted no little from the general pleasure. The instrumental trio of Schuman, a lovey composition in itself, was beautifully rendered by Mr. Julius Peters and Professors . W. Thilow and Jacob Reinhardt.

Messrs. Dimmock and Chamberlayne sang a duet and each a solo, in all of which they acquitted themselves very creditably. The orchestra was smaller than usual, but played three selections with much spirit. My First Ball Waltzes" were greatly enloyed, as was also the overture of "Pique

BACHELOR OF ARTS. William Warren Field, Colbeper. MASTERS OF ARTS.

William Coleman Bitting, Baltimore; Solomon Cutchins, Nansemond; Bartelot Todd Davies, King and Queen; John Winslow Snyder, Richmond. Professor Valentine, in behalf of the Committee of Judges, presented to William T. Derieux the Woods (declamation) medal in a short, neat, and appropriate speech. The "Steel Medal," presented by Dr. G. B. Steel, of this city, and given to the bestreader, was presented to Manly B. Curry, of this city, by General Joseph E. Johnston. The General arose amid the most deafening applause, and in a few well-chosen words congratulated Mr. Curry upon his success, and alluded in a most touching way to the friendship which has so long existed between bimself and the father of young CUTTY.

At the close of General Johnston's remarks Captain John S. Wise stepped for-ward and presented the General with a fired two shots, but says he fired over the eloquent little speech, in which he alluded The prisoner continued his flight, and to the distinguished services which General-Johnston had rendered in days that tried men's souls. As the General stood as if embarrassed by the scene, and hesitating as arise, but his pursuers observed a place on to what to say in reply, the band struck up "Dixie," which was an appropriate close to this delightful episode. THE FRANCIS GWIN MEDAL, given to the best student of philosophy, was presented to William C. Bitting, of Baltimore, by Governor Kemper in an address of great power. As the Governor arose the clouds which had been gathering commenced pouring out their treasures, and the flashing lightning and pealing thunder created quite a sensation, yet so calmly did the Governor proceed with his remarks that he soon gained and rivetted the attention of the vast crowd. We should like to record some of his advice to Mr. Bitting, but must content ourselves with one sentence, " Young man, stick to Virginia till you die, and do as I did oncemarry early."

DEGREE OF A. R. Dr. Curry conferred the degree of A. B. upon W. W. Field, and the Master's degree upon W. C. Bitting, Sol. Cutchins, B. T. Davies, and J. W. Snyder, in an address of great beauty and force. In other words, he spoke just as is his custom. After disposing of the gaaduates Dr. Curry spoke of what the College is to Richmond, of the money it brings here, and of the other and higher benefits it bestows.

MANCHESTER NEWS.

A Supposed Case of Accidental Drowning-Coroner's Inquest.-Yesterday morning the dead body of a colored man named. Aaron Sutton, lately employed at the Rich-mond and Danville railroad shops, was found in the canal near the paper-mill Coroner Ingram being notified had the following jury of inquest summoned: Thomas M. Fendley, N. W. Eubank, George Vaden, H. E. Duval, William J. Harding, and Alexander Baxter. The following facts were elicited on the examination: Tuesday evening Officer Fitzgerald arrested Sutton for an assault on Spencer Claiborne (colored), and an employe of the railroad company. The officer and two men, and possibly others, started up to Justice Perdue to compromise the matter.

When near the gate of C. C. McRae, Esq., president of the City Council, Sutton, who was a few steps behind, ran off. He was nursued. Officer Fitzgerald called to William Forsee, watchman in the Danville man, and knows he did not strike him. jumped in the canal below the Danville bridge with the intention, it is supposed, of escaping to Richmond. He was not seen to the opposite bank which they supposed was where he had climbed out. The man was missed next day, but nothing was thought of it until the body was found vesterday. The jury retured a verdict of accidental drowning while attempting to escape from the police. Some of the friends of the deceased allege that there was a mark on his head made by a pistol-ball, and that death resulted therefrom. It was an unfortunate occurrence. Sutton had not been in the employ of the company long, but was highly spoken of. Mayor's Court .- Only one or two unimportant cases were disposed of at the Mayor's Court yesterday.
